THE LIBRARY REPORT.

The annual report of the Kingston City Library Association, recently printed in The Freeman, presents a situation that is, to say the least, remarkable. The outstanding feature of the report is that at the end of the calendar year the association finds itself facing a deficit of $1,171. The disbursement column discloses that the association has spent only $770.86 for the purchase of new books, which sum is $400.72 less than the total deficit. All but $1,119.89 of the total amount received during the year from various sources was spent for salaries and janitor service. Is there not some way whereby the annual income of this association could be increased or so administered that more books might be bought?

A glance at the "receipts" column will disclose the fact that only $26 was received by the Library from membership fees or, in other words, that less than one person out of every thousand in the city is a member of the association. It is not possible to increase the income from this source? Are there not more than one out of every thousand in this city who are sufficiently interested in the welfare of the association to pay $1 per year membership dues?

THE POOR FAT FOLK.

Despite his unenviable notoriety, "Fatty" Arbuckle has a powerful friend in Will Hays, the czar of the movies, but fat men in general are less fortunate. Even those whose lives are altogether blameless, so far as the most prying of critics can ascertain, seem to rest under suspicion of a sort. It is not merely that "nobody loves a fat man" because he offends the eye of the admirer of physical shapeliness, but that he is apt to be regarded as a victim of self-indulgence—which may not be true, obesity in medical opinion not infrequently being the result of physical disease. The popular attitude has now found legal expression in a town of Sweden, which has levied a graduated tax on all fat people proportionate to their weight. This punitive tax begins as low down as the perfectly normal weight of 150 pounds and steadily rises until the 200-pounder is charged "ten francs for each added kilo." Presumably the graduated assessment will have mounted so high in the case of the 300-pounder that he will have to sell his home to pay his taxes.

The snug and more or less lean Swedes, who have caught the contagion of the world's passion for regulating its neighbors, solemnly justify the tax on the ground that fat people stand convicted, in the very fact of their surplus flesh, of gluttony and indolence. They argue that lazy 200-pounders and the rest all along the black-listed line should pay for such vices by contributing to the state, that the new law compelling them to do so is in the interests of health and sobriety, and that it invites support as a hygienic measure. Whether these regulating Swedes will succeed in taxing obesity out of their town remains to be seen. Meanwhile we may expect medical authorities on the fat "diathesis" to protest and the unfortunate heavy-weights, who are starving themselves and painfully hiking everyday with a view to "reduce," to conclude that the slings and arrows of outrageous fortune become more pitiless every year.

Henry Morgenthau, former American Ambassador to Turkey, complains that after trying for 400 years to keep the Turks out of Europe the Europeans have now allowed themselves to be kicked out of Turkey.

A satisfying job for everybody is Henry Ford's reported cure for world unrest, but to satisfy even those who want jobs is a rather difficult proposition, to say nothing of those constitutionally antipathetic toward any job whatsoever.

Amusement is afforded in Albany by the fact that nine out of ten legislators, either Democratic or Republican, are about convinced that Governor Smith has recommended many things which he doesn't want and which he knows the Democratic party does not want.

Then, too, it is the general impression that he knows they will not pass and probably wouldn't have urged them if he thought they would. No one knows better than Governor Smith that all Democrats are not state ownership and municipal ownership Democrats.

What do you want to know about Nature Subjects? Send any questions of general interest to the Nature Notes Dept. of this paper, enclosing self-addressed and stamped envelope for reply.

Can You Answer These Questions?

1. I got some cones from the largest sequoia trees while traveling in California and planted one in the fall. Why didn't it sprout?
2. Are ants blind?
3. How do robins know where to strike to pull a worm out of the soil?

Answers in Monday's Nature Notes.

Answers to Previous Questions.

1. How long has asbestos been used as a manufactured article? There is a tradition that as far back as Charlemagne it has been woven into fabric, that king owning a curious tablecloth of asbestos, which was purified by burning it! It is authentic that in 1676 a Chinese merchant exhibited to Europeans a handkerchief made from these fibres. The ancients used lamp wicks of the fibres, and also a sort of asbestos cloth in which dead bodies were wrapped when committed to the funeral pyre, to keep the human ashes from mingling with wood ashes.
2. Is there any difference between a quagga and a zebra? Yes, though both belong to the same family, Sirenia, herbivorous marine mammals. The manatee or sea cow has a rounded tail, and is found in the Gulf of Mexico, off the eastern coast of South America, and one variety frequents the Amazon. The dugong has a widely forked tail, bilobed like a whale's, and lives in the Red Sea, Indian Ocean, and north of Australia.
3. Is the catbird all gray? The general effect is plain deep slate color, with black or crown of head. But the under tail coverts—that is, the soft feathers underneath the tail quills—are a deep chestnut or mahogany color. Of course this rufous patch does not show in all positions.

A FISH STORY

Showing Shark Not The Only Efficient Towboat.

Editor, The Freeman:

I read in your paper last night about a ten ton boat towed eight miles by a shark that calls to my mind one time we were drifting up the Hudson and were anxious to get home for Sunday. We were off Poughkeepsie. I had a couple of young fellows on board the schooner with me who were walking around on deck when they saw a school of sturgeon swimming up the river. I says, "Quick boys, lasso a couple of them." Well sir, they did catch one on the starboard and one on the port side of the schooner and made their lasso fast. I grabbed the wheel and those "critters" towed that schooner right up the river and in the Rondout Creek before the tide made ebb, all safe. I was sorry to butcher these fish as they had done us a good turn and Albany beef was plentiful in those days in the river, so we let them go as they had helped us out so well. I believe in the Golden Rule, I do.

CURRENT OFFERINGS AT THE THEATERS

In "The Eternal Flame," at Keene's tonight for the last time, Norma Talmadge scores the most brilliant success of her screen career as the Duchess De Langais, supported by Conway Tearle in a drama magnificent. Monday's attraction is Mary Miles Minter in a South Sea romance of adventure and thrills "South of Suva."

"The Ninety and Nine" the thrill picture at the Kingston Opera House for the last time tonight proves one of the most exciting photoplays yet screened. Larry Seamon in "Golf" proves very hilarious.

Herbert Rawlinson in an exciting detective mystery story "One Wonderful Night," is the attraction at the Auditorium tonight. Also a Century Comedy and International News. Monday, "Lady Godiva," adapted from Tennyson's poem.

Today a double feature picture bill is scheduled for the Orpheum Theater, "Heart's Haven," with an all star cast, and Roy Stewart in "Blue Blood and Red," and six acts of vaudeville. Monday and Tuesday's feature is a George Mulford production, "Ebb Tide," a late Paramount picture.

BLOOMINGTON.

Bloomington, Jan. 20.—People here were sorry to hear of the death of Benjamin J. Hyde on Monday morning. He had been ill but a short time. Lung Weakness and Hacking Cough

Weekly Health Talk
By Froude & MacKinnon, D's. C.

Many sufferers from terrifying lung diseases that hang on and on, threatening at any time to become virulent, have no realization of the fact that chiropractic spinal adjustments will go directly to the seat of this trouble, and remove the cause.

If the spinal nerves to the lungs are pressed upon, it is most reasonable to expect lack of tone, weakness and disease. Chiropractic spinal adjustments, by freeing the nerves for their work, give Nature a chance, and health results.

A Question of Degrees

By MORRIS SCHULTZ
Editor, Kingston Daily Freeman
(© 1922, Western Newspaper Union)

"Harvey, I do love you, but it's no use. I've just got to marry Elmer Meredith," sighed Vanna Delaine. The young planter sighed. "It's no better than slave-buying," he said morosely.

"I suppose it's what's going on everywhere," said Vanna. "We must be satisfied just to be friends, Harvey." "I shall not give up hope until you're married, Vanna," said Harvey as he turned away.

He rode back savagely. It was, as he had said, simply slave-buying. Colonel Delaine's orange orchard was all he had in the world; the price of oranges had gone down with a bang, and Elmer Meredith was going to foreclose unless Vanna married him. And that meant homelessness for the colonel, who was lying desperately ill.

No, nothing else was to be thought of. The orange crop might have been sold on the trees, but Grace, the buyer, was hesitating about prices in face of the sudden decline in prices. And, even if Grace bought, it would only save off the inevitable for three months.

And Colonel Delaine was not likely to get any better.

Harvey racked his brains, but there was no way of winning Vanna. He had invested every penny of his small property in his land and young trees, which adjoined the Delaine plantation, and, moreover, he, too, was struggling hard to keep his property from passing to Meredith, who held the mortgage. It would kill the colonel to lose "Syrre's Rest." The colonel had no idea how much money was owing for the expenses of his illness.

A few days later Harvey rode round to Vanna's.

"I see they've had the worst blizzard in twenty years at Medicine Hat," he said. "Suppose it comes south, Vanna?"

"The meteorological bureau will notify us in time," said the girl.

"Two days at most," Vanna, I'm going to set my men, Jim and Pete, to work piling wood between all my rows of trees, and between yours, Vanna. This may be like the frost of '85 that killed all the trees in this district."

Vanna demurred, but Harvey insisted. "I've just got a sort of hunch, Vanna," he said.

Three days later, when the work was completed, frost warnings appeared in the local papers. There was considerable bustle. Orange trees will stand three or four degrees of frost; not more. Three or four was the worst that had been known in nearly thirty years.

A few planters got some cornrobs and light stuff in readiness for a smudge—most took no notice of the warning.

But the temperature was falling steadily. It was going down two degrees an hour, and when it touched freezing Harvey was over at Vanna's place.

"I've told the boys to light up, Van," he said. "Come along and let's get busy. We need all the hands we can get."

Two hours later the thermometer stood at 27. An hour after that it was at 25. It touched 23 at midnight.

But the fires on Harvey's and Vanna's land were throwing out heat and a cloud of smudge to shelter the tender trees. All night they and the blacks labored. And at seven in the morning it was just 32, and going up steadily.

The danger was past. The golden fruit hung ripe upon the trees. But all around them lay ruined plantations and dead trees.

Grace was up post haste that morning. "I'll take that four dollars you offered, Miss Delaine," he said.

Harvey, standing by her, laughed. "We'll wait and see what news the papers have," he answered.

"See here, I'll make it five-fifty," stammered Grace.

"I won't sell under seven," said Harvey firmly. "You'd better hold out for that, too, Vanna."

"You be d—d!" spluttered Grace, remounting his horse and galloping away in dudgeon.

Elmer Meredith was around a little later. He glanced indignantly at the crop. "Some smart work, Miss Vanna," he drawled. "I jest came over about that little matter of the mortgage."

He glanced indignantly at Harvey. Grace came galloping up. "I'll make it seven," he shouted.

"Eight's our price now," said Harvey, and Grace closed promptly. "All right, Mr. Meredith, we'll send you a check this afternoon," he said.

"What the devil's it got to do with you?" demanded Meredith.

"Oh, perhaps you didn't know that Miss Delaine and I are engaged to be married," Harvey answered.

Too Careless.

What strange liberties our story writers take with their characters' eyes. Here are a few examples:

"Her eyes roamed carelessly around the room."

"With her eyes she riveted him to the spot."

"He tore his eyes from her face and they fell on the letter at her feet."

"He drank her in with drowning eyes."

"Their eyes met for a long, breathless moment and swam together."

"Marjory would often take her eyes from the deck and cast them far out to sea."

"He tore his eyes away from her, causing intense pain to both." We should think it would.—Boston Transcript.

COGS POPULAR IN LONDON

Women Particularly Seem to Have Taken Them Into Favor—In Demand in France.

Londoners are very fond of dogs, and more than half the women one meets on the street have them on leash, or running loose. I was discussing this phase of London life with a London policeman when a lady passed with a little dog, of a type and breed that were entirely strange to me.

"What kind of a dog is that?" I asked him.

He turned from motioning a fast-speeding motorist to slow down. "That," he replied, "Oh, there are only two kinds of dogs in London—the quick and the dead."

A part of fashionable Hyde Park is set aside for a "dog cemetery," and the headstones and epitaphs show the affectionate regard in which many people hold their dog friends.

Good dogs are very scarce in France and command a high price. This is due to the fact that for several reasons dogs were very generally destroyed during the war.—People's Gas Club News.

Not Looking for Rattles. The road was rising from the foothills into the Tennessee mountains. The motorist had borrowed a bucket of water for his radiator and stood talking with the old resident. "Nice country you have around here," he began.

"Pretty fair, pretty fair, stranger," returned the old farmer, looking into the distance.

"Many snakes?" was the next inquiry.

"Well, my wife killed twenty-four rattlesnakes down in the pasture," said the old man.

"Why, that was a fearful experience," gasped the motorist.

"Yes, it was kind of annoying," replied the farmer. "You see, she wasn't out after rattlesnakes, she was after persimmons."

Too Much for Lady Officer. Last year they had a lady traffic officer in an eastern city and she was good, too. She wore white gloves, knickerbockers, a jaunty cap, and directed traffic with all the nonchalance of an experienced cop. One day, however, she turned in her equipment and returned to skirts. A lady friend wanted to know what the trouble was.

"I don't care to discuss it," the L. C. declared.

"Aw, go on and tell me, dearie," said the other.

"Well, the chief refused a reasonable request and I quit," conceded the L. C.

"Something in the line of duty?" the other woman wanted to know.

"I so consider it. I merely wanted an hour off to get my hair washed."

ELLENVILLE TEAM TROUNCES LIBERTY FIVE

Chief Murphy's Work Fruitless When the Liberty Five was Outclassed.

Chief Murphy led in scoring for the Liberty Five with ten points Friday evening against the Ellenville Independents at the latter's court, when the Liberty Five handed a trouncing to the tune of 44 to 17. Eckert playing guard for the Independents was high scorer with 15 points. Individual playing on the part of the players from this city was the cause of the uneven score together with a one-sided deal.

Tuesday, January 23, Not 30th.

The Men's Bible Class of the Clinton Avenue M. E. Church will present the comedy, "Way Down Along," at Mechanics' Hall Tuesday evening, January 23, instead of January 30, as announced in Thursday's issue of The Freeman.

Stout Family in Hard Luck.

There is a family of ten young pheasants which enjoyed a miraculous escape from death while yet in their shells. One morning an English gamekeeper came face to face with a stout bearing one of the eggs; she paid the penalty, and it was then found that all the eggs were missing. He suspended the dead robber in a hedge and set a trap below, in which her mate was taken. Their nest was found near by and among the baby stouts were the missing eggs. A massacre of innocents followed—innocents they were, since not an egg had been touched. The keeper bore the eggs home in his shirt to a broody fowl, who duly hatched the young birds.

How He Left the Court.

A young colored man wearing very squeaky shoes entered a crowded courtroom and proceeded around three sides of the room in an effort to find a seat. Squeak, squeak, squeak—thus went the shoes. The judge was peevish that morning and snapped at a bailiff: "See here, I want order in the court."

"Order-r-r in court," bawled three bailiffs in unison.

The culprit made a hasty exit. "Wasn't that a mistake, Sam?" asked his employer when apprised of the episode. "Didn't your shoes squeak as you walked out?"

"Boss, I didn't walk out. I flew."

LOCAL DEATH RECORD.

Recent Deaths and Funerals of Persons in This Vicinity.

A first anniversary Mass for Mrs. John Rothery will be held Wednesday morning, at eight o'clock in St. Mary's Church.

The funeral of Benjamin J. Hyde, who died Monday last at his home in Bloomington, was held from the funeral chapel of Leo V. Grogan on Thursday afternoon and was very largely attended. The Rev. George M. Cranston, pastor of the Clinton Avenue Church, conducted the services. The interment was in Montpelier Cemetery.

Carl F. Strohmenger died Friday at his residence, 306 West 51st street, New York city. Mr. Strohmenger is a nephew of Gilead Smith, of this city and was a frequent visitor here, having a large number of friends, who will be greatly grieved to learn of his death. The funeral will be held Sunday afternoon at 2:45 o'clock from the chapel at 671 8th avenue.

Bridget McAlinney, an old and respected resident of the downtown section of this city, died at her home, 14 East Union street, Friday evening. She was the widow of the late Patrick McAlinney. The funeral will be held Monday morning from the late residence at 9 o'clock and from St. Mary's Church at 9:30 o'clock, where a requiem Mass will be offered for the repose of her soul. Interment in the family plot in St. Mary's Cemetery.

The funeral of Stephen Raymond, the West Shore brakeman who was suddenly killed Wednesday evening at about 10:30 o'clock, in the north yard, when boarding a freight train upon which he was employed, will be held from the funeral chapel of Leo V. Grogan Sunday morning at 10:30 o'clock, thence to the Reformed Church at Walkkill, where services will be held at 2 o'clock. Interment in the Walden Cemetery. Mr. Raymond is survived by one sister, Mrs. C. E. Terwilliger, of Walkkill.

SPACE FOR PLANTING TREES

Branches of White Elm or Hackberry Will Come Together When Forty Feet Apart.

Street or road trees should never be planted closer than forty feet. The branches of white elm or hackberry planted on rich soil at this distance will often come together. Give plenty of room for future development of the tree as naturally as possible.

Check Orchard Diseases. Collect and destroy all mummified and windfall fruit in your orchard. It will check the spread of diseases in your orchard.

Location for Windbreak. Put the orchard windbreak on the south and west. This will protect from the hot drying winds of summer.

Men Who Fear Mice. There are men who fear mice. Fruit growers have good cause to watch their trees this winter.

K. & M. BOWLERS
TRUE LEADERS

Team Heads Standing With 15 Won and 3 Lost and Two Players Lead the List of High Scorers—Great Interest in Matches at "Y."

Bowling is holding its own at the "Y" these days. The alleys are seldom unoccupied. Those not in the Mercantile League are practicing up. What might be called "inter-alley" matches are now starting. Monday of this week the Elks' team played a team of the "Y," and will meet this same team at the Elks' Club next Monday evening. The team playing the Elks has two members of the Star Five, but is not the Star Five as indicated on the score report.

Friday night the Fuller Co. team defeated the Schilling Co. two out of three. The score:

Fuller Co.	Schilling Co.	Average
144	135	147-142
169	131	137-162
169	123	133-142

Schilling Furniture Co.	Average
128	135
162	155
141	179

Atkins 131 472 414-439

The present schedule will be completed the early part of February, but plans are now under way to start another schedule to run the rest of the winter. In the present league there are prizes offered for the men and teams standing highest. So far, the K. & M. Silk Mills have the lead on the rest, holding all the high team records. Slawson, of this team, has the record for high score and high average. The standing of the men averaging 150 and above are:

COFFEY SIGNS TO BOX HERMAN

Wednesday evening at Amsterdam in Twelve Round Feature Match—Coffey Draws Color Line.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Amsterdam, Jan. 20.—Vince Coffey of Kingston and Johnny Herman of New York, welterweights, will feature the second show of the Armory Athletic Club which will be staged here Wednesday night. Coffey had previously been matched to meet Sandy Taylor, but declined the issue when he learned Taylor was a negro. The bout with Herman will be of twelve rounds.

Rube Cohen of Albany, who made a favorable impression here two weeks ago, will meet "Wildman" Gould of New York in a ten round semi-final.

EASTERN BASKETBALL LEAGUE QUILTS FOR SEASON.

Philadelphia, Jan. 19.—At a meeting of the Eastern Basketball League officials at the Windsor Hotel last night, it was decided to suspend all action in the league this season. No more games will be played this season but it is believed that the circuit will be formed again next year.

All players under contract with the four clubs which were represented at the meeting, Philadelphia, Camden, Trenton and Coatesville, were released and all other business of the league was cleared up. This offers a good chance for up-state New York State League teams to sign up players of ability and strengthen their teams.

"Y" BOYS' WEEK
SUCCEEDS HERE

Fund For "Y" Work Totals $151.78 With More To Follow—Team 5, Westbrook Stelle, Captain, is Winner.

Friday evening the boys who have been conducting the campaign for funds for "Y" work met for supper in the boys' rooms at the Y. M. C. A. A. bountiful feed, prepared by Mrs. Longyear and Mrs. Warner of the Ladies' Auxiliary, was served, after which the envelopes collected were handed in. While the team captains were counting up their amounts, Fred Van Deusen entertained the fellows with some magic, contributing his services as his part in the campaign.

Mr. Hall, who had charge of the meeting, made a few remarks, thanking the boys for the good work they had done.

W. H. Buehler, secretary of the state boy's work committee was present and expressed his thanks to the workers for their part in the making of "State Boys' Week" a success. The sums collected were then announced, team 5, captained by Westbrook Stelle, being announced the winner. While these amounts were being read, a great deal of enthusiasm was shown, particularly by the members of teams 4 and 5, who were tied for first place, the latter winning out by making more contributions to swell their funds out of their own pockets. All the money has not yet been collected, as some of the people for whom envelopes were left were not at home when the workers called. These were to have been collected today. If there are any people whose contribution has not been called for, it would be very much appreciated if they would mail it to either Adolph Stumpf or C. R. Hall at the Central Y. M. C. A. or let either of these know and a boy will call for it. The collection as it stands at present is as follows:

Y. M. C. A. & Hi-Y Boys	$
Team 1, Ralph Longyear, captain	21.50
Team 2, Reginald Le Ware, captain	14.00
Team 3, Raymond Sanford, captain	18.00
Team 4, Harold Du Bois, captain	16.86
Team 5, Westbrook Stelle, captain	23.20
Team 6, John Wells, captain	23.50
Team 7, Archie Ronk, captain	21.22
Total	135.50

This money will be divided as follows: $50.50 state work, $60.50 foreign work, $30.50 local work. Any other contributions that are received will be divided in the same proportion 40 percent state, 40 percent foreign, 20 percent local.

RUBY. Ruby, Jan. 19.—Jacob Stice of Brooklyn is home for the winter months.

James McCue of Bayridge, Brooklyn, is visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George F. Young.

Miss Lena Halbleib of Kingston, spent a few days at her home in this place.

The many friends of Miss Rose Byrne were sorry to hear of her sudden death, and extend much sympathy to her bereaved relatives. Mr. and Mrs. Lester Felton of the metropolis, have moved to his old home in this place.

K. H. S. LOSES
CLOSE CONTEST

To Poughkeepsie at Latter's Court by a 21 to 22 Tally—Pashin is High Scorer With R. Corrigan and Schmidt Close Seconds.

Friday the basketball team of Kingston High School traveled to Poughkeepsie, where they met the quintet of the Bridge City High School. The game was fast throughout, the score at no time being largely in favor of either side. Poughkeepsie, however, managed to get in the lead by a small margin and emerged the winner by a 24-22 score.

Poughkeepsie's score came entirely from field baskets, they failing to make good on the three fouls charged against the locals. R. Corrigan, of the Maroon and Whites made good four out of six tries from the complimentary line, and caged an equal number of field goals. Pashin was the big point-getter of the game, making six fields. Schmidt of Kingston came next in order with five two pointers to his credit.

The game was very clean, but three personal fouls being charged against Kingston and five against Poughkeepsie.

The loss of this game leaves the locals no league standing, but as this is only the second on the schedule, there are still strong hopes for the locals occupying a top berth yet. They have been at odds for the past two weeks, as Burger who was the big scorer for the team has quit school. There are still enough good players to make a winning team, however, and if the fellows only take heart, big things can be expected of them.

TENDLER WINS IN LAST ROUNDS

By Telegram to The Freeman.

New York, Jan. 20.—In a grueling fifteen-round bout, Lew Tendler, the Philadelphia lightweight, secured the judges' decision over Pal Moran of New Orleans, at Madison Square Garden last night. The Quaker southpaw gained the decision by fighting furiously through the last three rounds, having Moran in a precarious state at the end of the fourteenth. No knockdowns were scored but both men were bleeding from cuts over the eyes at the end.
